VOL. IV. NO. 35.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1898.

PRICE, 5 CENTS

FOR FITZPATRICK'S FAMILY.

The Daily Telegraph of New York has started a subscription for the wife and children of "Dare Devil" W. J. Fitzpatrick, who died last week and left nothing in the way of sustenance for his family. The Telegraph wired DAILY RACING FORM Tuesday night, as follows:

NEW YORK, Feb. 8, 1898.

The Telegraph is starting a subscription for the family of Fitzpatrick. Can you give it mention?

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The answer was as follows:

CHICAGO, ILL., Feb. 8, 1898.

Certainly. Subscribe $25 for DAILY RACING FORM of Chicago.

DAILY RACING FORM PUBLISHING CO.

A second dispatch was sent an hour later, as follows:

CHICAGO, ILL., Feb. 8, 1898.

Put down Barney Schreiber for $25 also.

DAILY RACING FORM PUBLISHING CO.

Fitz was improvident, but he was honest and a credit to the turf. He may have made mistakes, but never in the line of riding morality. He deserves a monument and his family a living. If any admirer of Fitz wants to subscribe to the New York Telegraph's fund through DAILY RACING FORM the subscriptions will be cheerfully forwarded to the main source.

There is a good prospect that a substantial fund will be raised in the east, but since Fitzpatrick rode much in the west and had hosts of friends and admirers here it is to be hoped the western subscription will be hearty and generous. Fred Taral has proposed that each jockey riding at the Morris Park meeting shall give his fees for one day's riding to the fund. This will be done and will produce a handsome sum. Why cannot the boys now riding at San Francisco and New Orleans do the same?

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.

It is hard to say with any near approach to accuracy how long the horse has been a domesticated animal. We can only say that he has been so from time immemorial—that is, from the earliest time of which we have any records. The Assyrian sculptures—and they are about the most ancient of which we know anything, for some of them are estimated to date from 4200 B. C.—contain more representations of caparisoned horses than even men. Still, we do not get any examples of favorite horses until a long time after this.

Even the first examples, indeed, are only legendary, for, though there is no doubt Hector of Troy existed, it is not improbable that Homer invented the names of his three favorite horses, Pegasus, the cream colored Galathea and the fiery Ethon. But the horse of Alexander the Great, Bucephalus, is an individual as historically real as his master. But the horse of Alexander the Great showed so much viciousness that Alexander's father was about to send him away when the young prince offered to tame him. He agreed, in the event of failure, to forfeit the price of the horse and began by turning his head to the sun, as he observed that the horse was frightened at his own shadow. In the end he completely tamed him—so completely, indeed, that Bucephalus, though he would permit nobody except Alexander to mount him, always knelt down for that purpose to his master. He died at the age of 30, and his master built as his mausoleum the city of Bucephala.—London Standard.

The Washington Post tells, in the line of political gossip, a peculiarly interesting story that bears on the turf. Here it is:

Senator Deboe, although a Kentuckian, is not to the manner born, because he has an antipathy to horse races. His predecessor, Joe Blackburn, thinks that a horse race is the finest sport in the world. When Deboe came to Washington, Blackburn thought he would make everything as pleasant as possible for his successor, and, as the races were in progress, he suggested that Deboe go with him out to the Bennings course.

"I really do not care to go," said the newly elected senator.

"Not go!" exclaimed Mr. Blackburn, in undisguised amazement. "Don't you like a horse race?"

"Well, the fact is," drawled Deboe, languidly, "I really do not care much for that kind of sport. You see, I never saw a horse yet that could not, if he were put to it, beat another horse."

Blackburn looked at his colleague in blank surprise. Then he made an exclamation that would not look well in print.

"No," said Deboe, conclusively, "there isn't anything in a horse race. Sometimes the horses may come in even, but generally speaking, when a horse is put to it, he can beat another horse."

The disgusted Blackburn went by himself.

MORRIS PARK SPRING STAKES.

The stakes to be run at Morris Park, which closed February 3, received a grand total of 564 entries, not averaging nearly as well as the Sheephead Bay and Gravesend stakes. The truth is the Westchester Association was conspicuously stingy in the matter of added money to these stakes, and as a proper consequence have suffered in the way of entries. Still they will no doubt produce good racing. The leading event, the Metropolitan Handicap, has the following entry list of good horses: Merry Prince, Octagon, Don d'Oro, Typhoon II, Nuto, Caldron, Royal Stag, Ogden, Isidor, Sensational, Michael III, Sly Fox, Ben Eder, Cleophus, Previous, Handball, Ben Holladay, Lehman, George Keene, Imperator, Blueaway, Demagogue, Sailor King, Winged Foot, Premier, Blue Devil, Bowling Brook, Varus, Lou Bramble, Tillo, Algol, Macy, Presbyterian, Debride, Dr. Catlett and L'Alouette.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The Aqueduct race track is to be extensively improved and modernized before racing is resumed there next spring. The old grandstand has been torn away and the ground in its rear extending back to the railroad has been secured and a new grand stand will be built at an angle which will make it possible for all the spectators to see the run through the long homestretch. The changes contemplated will give a great deal more room between the grandstand and the track, and this space will be cemented, a great improvement over the old slanting, slippery board walk well known to habitués of the Aqueduct track.

An attempt will be made to amend the racing bill now pending before the Kentucky house of representatives so as to increase the time limit to twenty days for each of the two meetings per annum allowed by the bill or, that failing, to provide that any association not requiring the whole time allowed by the bill may lend their unused days to other associations.

On and after February 15, racing at New Orleans will begin at 2:30 p.m., a half hour later than the present time for the first race.

THE AMERICAN SPORTING MANUAL.

The first edition of the American Sporting Manual is exhausted. A second edition is on the market. The book is by far the best thing in the line of records ever offered to the American public. The paper edition sells for 25 cents. The soft morocco covered, gold lettered Manual at 50 cents is a volume that the lover of correct sporting records can use for a score of years.

Winner—B f. by Clarendon—Voldando.

Start straggling. Won easily and all the way. Place in a hard drive by three horses. Clarando was best and ran her race. She was lucky, well ridden and suited by the track. Augustine is a most promising colt. He leans toward mud and closed strongly and truly. Malay was coming too. He needs strong handling, favors a fast course and a distance. He ran to the mark. Vioris ran green. He is a good colt. So is Villmar. Wood and Wrinkles might as well have been left.

Winner—Ch. c. by Flambeau—Sallie G.

Start fair. Won very easily. Not much action behind at the finish. Estro was best. He was fresh and will do better. Is a good colt. Elidad ran an extra good race. He favors mud. Mistleton was closing fast at end. He is formidable only on a fast track. He is good and should be tabbed. Frio ran his race. His game is mud. The Arrow is not reliable. Musculado seems to be a fast track horse. Brambella was sorely messed about. She is a mud runner and should be watched. Socialist ran as if short and should be considered as good only upon a fast course. El Moro is best in mud.

Scratched—Chihuahua, 109; Formella, 107.

Winner—Ch. m. 5, by Surinam—Paloma.

Start fair. The first four horses and jockeys were doing the best they could. Palomacita had the best of the racing action. She was well ridden. The mare is good. Roche was short for the distance. He is due and will be a tough proposition for any horse here from now on. The track didn't suit Tierra. He's ready. Tab him. Serena will do best on a fast course. She is ready and was short to-day. Flandes' race was honest.

Scratched—Claudiana, 100; Wawona, 107.

Start good. Won easily. The other three horses were driving hard. Massie outclassed his field. He is ready now; was lucky and well handled. Jones ran his race. He is best in mud. Was used too much and went to pieces in the final drive. Watch Prietos. He ran an extra good race, is as fit as a fiddle and closed strong. Throw out the race as to Flashlight. He was made ready by it and ran short.

Start fair. Won in a hard drive. Bernays should have won; he was best but unlucky. The colt likes the mud and was well ridden. So was Morinel, who was luckier. She is good and finished strong. Throw out Bonito's race and watch her. Dolore ran to the mark. Was outclassed. The Dipper is nearly ready; closed strong, likes a route and needs strong handling. Bed and Outright were outclassed. The latter was pulled up at the end. Greenleaf ran away five miles before being left.
